Occupation of City Gives Jews Control of Much of Palestine Coastline

TO LEBANESE BORDER

Haifa, However, Still Held By The British Troops

By Benn Feller

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

TEL AVIV, State of Israel, May 18—(INS)—The Arab port city of Acre, 12 miles north of Haifa, surrendered today to Jewish assault forces.

Occupation of Acre gave Jews control of the whole Palestine coastline as far as the Lebanese border, with the exception of the port of Haifa which still is held by British troops.

Surrender of the port marked the first major seizure of Arab territory by Jews since they proclaimed their own independent state of Israel.

Acre lies within the limits of Arab territory as outlined in the United Nations partition plan.

Previously, before last Saturday's proclamation of a Jewish State, the port of Jaffa, also designated as Arab under the U. N. plan, gave itself up to the Jews when Arab leaders announced they would be unable to defend the port.

An estimated 4,000 Arab troops who were holding out in the old fortress of Acre surrendered to units of Haganah, army of the State of Israel, after a 22-hour battle.

Surrender terms included the handing over of all arms belonging to all non-Palestine Arab troops at Acre.

Doylestown Sr. Student Is Reported Missing

DOYLESTOWN, May 18—A 16-year-old Bedminster girl, a senior at the Doylestown high school, has been missing from her home for 11 days and is being sought by the police.

Miss Margaret Eleanor Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Myers, was last seen by her parents when she left home on the morning of May 7th, for Doylestown High School. It was learned that she was seen less than an hour later walking away from the school building, and is believed to have headed for the Fair Grounds to see the horse show.

State Police and Doylestown police were informed of the dissappearance later.

Sunday the entire fair grounds was searched by the missing girl's father. No trace or indication was found that would lead the girl's father to think that his daughter had been staying on the fair grounds. She loved horses, and her father believes that she might have left with some of the exhibitors and gone to another horse show.

Doylestown police had searched the fair grounds after Mr. Myers had reported the affair to them, and they, too, found no clue. Police in Reading were also notified to make a check at a horse show held in that city last week.

Myers told a reporter over the week-end that they found that Margaret had changed some of the marks on her report card a day or so before she had been reported missing.

"She might have been worried about her marks in the senior class," Myers said.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

United States policy toward Arab-Zionist fighting in the Holy Land was enunciated by Warren R. Austin in the United Nations Security Council yesterday. He introduced a resolution describing conditions in Palestine as a threat to peace and demanded that the Council order a truce within 36 hours under a Charter provision that would compel compliance. The resolution also addressed several pointed questions to the Arab Higher Committee, the seven nations in the Arab League and the new Zionist state of Israel. Although Russia demanded immediate consideration, action was deferred until delegates could receive instructions from their governments.

The Moscow radio reported that Russia had granted recognition to Israel.

Arab planes continued bombing Tel Aviv. Israel forces reported an important success at Acre and the Arabs said their troops had gained at other points.

The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, after nearly two years of futile effort, suspended work on a plan for international control of atomic energy. President Truman disclosed that successful tests had been made with three improved atomic weapons at Eniwetok. A task force of 10,000 men took part in the experiments.

A House subcommittee approved changes in Navy construction plans to permit an early start on a super-aircraft carrier. The warship, estimated at 65,000-80,000 tons, would be able to launch long-range heavy bombers and might be equipped for Arctic operations.

Premier Stalin has accepted Henry A. Wallace's "open letter" as the basis upon which Russia and the United States might open talks looking to a settlement of differences. He called the letter "a most important document," containing a "concrete program," the Moscow radio said.

The United States will demand revaluation and stabilization of exchange rates by Marshall Plan nations, the National Advisory Council reported to Congress and the President.

BRISTOL MAN HEADS GRAND JURY NOW IN SESSION

Five Divorces Have Been Granted by The Court

DOYLESTOWN, May 18—Henry B. Berry, of Bristol, was appointed foreman of the grand jury yesterday by Judge Calvin S. Boyer.

The grand jury will be in session this week and the traverse jury will convene next Monday.

Elmer Beer, of Doylestown, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to public nuisance. Patrolman Harton of the Doylestown police informed the court that Beer has been arrested 16 times since 1935, once for drunken driving.

Patrolman Harton told the court that he has been seen drunk twice since his last arrest.

Judge Keller before pronouncing sentence advised the district attorney to notify all local licensees to cease selling Beer any intoxicating liquor.

A sentence of two months to one year was imposed on Beer.

Final Police Class Session Is Held

The final session of the advanced police training school was held yesterday morning at the Municipal building with a discussion on "Firearms Nomenclature." Donald M. DeHart, FBI agent, conducted the class.

At this final session, members who completed the stipulated number of hours received certificates to that effect stating that they had completed the required amount of hours necessary to merit a certificate.

DeHart instructed the class on the proper method of handling a sidearm for inspection purposes. "The proper method of handing a gun to another man is to first flip out the chamber, and empty all the shells so there are none left for an accidental shooting. Never cover or point at anyone while doing this," he told the class. "After inspection of the gun, be certain that it is reloaded so that if you have to fire it in apprehending a criminal you'll get results."

The agent told a true story of a detective who had just completed an inspection and was called on a case to track down a suspected burglar. The detective went to the place, came across a huge man who after pointing the gun at him and threatening to fire gave up without any trouble. After he had taken the suspect to the police station for booking upon examining his gun he found to his surprise that it was empty.

"The proper method of handling an automatic on emptying it is to first remove the clip, and snap the action back and leave it there in case there is a cartridge in the chamber. One time we had a man picked up carrying a .45 automatic. The gun was taken from him and the clip removed. However, the action was not snapped back. Another detective came in and began examining the gun and admiring it. He pointed it at a clock and squeezed the trigger. The room was showered with clock pieces from the shell that was still in the chamber."

The nomanclature of the service .38, the magnum, the shotgun, the .45, and the sub-machine gun were discussed at the session. The FBI agent told the men that in handling any kind of guns to be sure there is no obstruction in the barrel, be careful of faulty ammunition, and beware of a hangfire.

TEL AVIV, State of Israel, May 18—(INS)—The Arab port city of Acre, 12 miles north of Haifa, surrendered today to Jewish assault forces.

Occupation of Acre gave Jews control of the whole Palestine coastline as far as the Lebanese border, with the exception of the port of Haifa which still is held by British troops.

Surrender of the port marked the first major seizure of Arab territory by Jews since they proclaimed their own independent state of Israel.

Acre lies within the limits of Arab territory as outlined in the United Nations partition plan.

Doylestown Sr. Student Is Reported Missing

DOYLESTOWN, May 18—A 16-year-old Bedminster girl, a senior at the Doylestown high school, has been missing from her home for 11 days and is being sought by the police.

Miss Margaret Eleanor Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Myers, was last seen by her parents when she left home on the morning of May 7th, for Doylestown High School. It was learned that she was seen less than an hour later walking away from the school building, and is believed to have headed for the Fair Grounds to see the horse show.

State Police and Doylestown police were informed of the dissappearance later.

Sunday the entire fair grounds was searched by the missing girl's father. No trace or indication was found that would lead the girl's father to think that his daughter had been staying on the fair grounds. She loved horses, and her father believes that she might have left with some of the exhibitors and gone to another horse show.

Doylestown police had searched the fair grounds after Mr. Myers had reported the affair to them, and they, too, found no clue. Police in Reading were also notified to make a check at a horse show held in that city last week.

Myers told a reporter over the week-end that they found that Margaret had changed some of the marks on her report card a day or so before she had been reported missing.

"She might have been worried about her marks in the senior class," Myers said.

Tondini notified Chief of Police Harry F. Christ who in turn called Chief Thomas Moore, and William Wamsley of the Union Fire Company. The three men applied oxygen to Caruso, his wife and daughter, Anna, 15. The son, Frank, 10, was removed to the office of Dr. Theodore Cohen for treatment.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

United States policy toward Arab-Zionist fighting in the Holy Land was enunciated by Warren R. Austin in the United Nations Security Council yesterday. He introduced a resolution describing conditions in Palestine as a threat to peace and demanded that the Council order a truce within 36 hours under a Charter provision that would compel compliance. The resolution also addressed several pointed questions to the Arab Higher Committee, the seven nations in the Arab League and the new Zionist state of Israel. Although Russia demanded immediate consideration, action was deferred until delegates could receive instructions from their governments.

The Moscow radio reported that Russia had granted recognition to Israel.

Arab planes continued bombing Tel Aviv. Israel forces reported an important success at Acre and the Arabs said their troops had gained at other points.

The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission, after nearly two years of futile effort, suspended work on a plan for international control of atomic energy. President Truman disclosed that successful tests had been made with three improved atomic weapons at Eniwetok. A task force of 10,000 men took part in the experiments.

A House subcommittee approved changes in Navy construction plans to permit an early start on a super-aircraft carrier. The warship, estimated at 65,000-80,000 tons, would be able to launch long-range heavy bombers and might be equipped for Arctic operations.

Premier Stalin has accepted Henry A. Wallace's "open letter" as the basis upon which Russia and the United States might open talks looking to a settlement of differences. He called the letter "a most important document," containing a "concrete program," the Moscow radio said.

The United States will demand revaluation and stabilization of exchange rates by Marshall Plan nations, the National Advisory Council reported to Congress and the President.

SCHEDULE MAY PROCESSIONS

Mr. Speaker, at the weekly meeting of the 28 Republican Members of Pennsylvania's congressional delegation, March 10, a resolution was unanimously adopted calling attention to the eminent qualifications of the Honorable Edward Martin, United States Senator from Pennsylvania, for the Republican nomination for President of the United States.

Based upon this resolution there appeared in today's issue of the Philadelphia Inquirer a column by Herman A. Lowe, further discussing Senator Martin's outstanding record in public life and the high regard in which Pennsylvania's favorite son is held by his associates in the Senate of the United States.

The resolution and newspaper article referred to are as follows:

Resolution Unanimously Adopted by the Pennsylvania Republican Delegation in the House of Representatives, Wednesday, March 10, 1948

Whereas the Republican Party is fortunate in having many outstanding men of distinguished attainments from whom to select a standard-bearer for the 1948 Presidential campaign; and

Whereas the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is represented in the Senate of the United States by a citizen-soldier and statesman eminently qualified to lead the American people forward in spiritual and material strength to national security, financial stability, and world leadership for peace; and

Whereas the vigor and zeal of his sturdy American patriotism, his stanch, constructive, and progressive republicanism, his wise counsel and brilliant leadership have been a constant source of inspiration and guidance; and

Whereas the distinguished career of Pennsylvania's Republican United States Senator for the welfare of the State and the Nation embraces:

1. Military service in the Spanish-American War, the Philippine Insurrection, the Mexican Border Campaign, World War I, and World War II, rising through every grade from buck private

BRISTOL MAN HEADS GRAND JURY NOW IN SESSION

Five Divorces Have Been Granted by The Court

DOYLESTOWN, May 18—Henry B. Berry, of Bristol, was appointed foreman of the grand jury yesterday by Judge Calvin S. Boyer.

The grand jury will be in session this week and the traverse jury will convene next Monday.

Elmer Beer, of Doylestown, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to public nuisance. Patrolman Harton of the Doylestown police informed the court that Beer has been arrested 16 times since 1935, once for drunken driving.

Patrolman Harton told the court that he has been seen drunk twice since his last arrest.

Judge Keller before pronouncing sentence advised the district attorney to notify all local licensees to cease selling Beer any intoxicating liquor.

A sentence of two months to one year was imposed on Beer.

Final Police Class Session Is Held

The final session of the advanced police training school was held yesterday morning at the Municipal building with a discussion on "Firearms Nomenclature." Donald M. DeHart, FBI agent, conducted the class.

At this final session, members who completed the stipulated number of hours received certificates to that effect stating that they had completed the required amount of hours necessary to merit a certificate.

DeHart instructed the class on the proper method of handling a sidearm for inspection purposes. "The proper method of handing a gun to another man is to first flip out the chamber, and empty all the shells so there are none left for an accidental shooting. Never cover or point at anyone while doing this," he told the class. "After inspection of the gun, be certain that it is reloaded so that if you have to fire it in apprehending a criminal, you'll get results."

The agent told a true story of a detective who had just completed an inspection and was called on a case to track down a suspected burglar. The detective went to the place, came across a huge man who after pointing the gun at him and threatening to fire gave up without any trouble. After he had taken the suspect to the police station for booking upon examining his gun he found to his surprise that it was empty.

"The proper method of handling an automatic on emptying it is to first remove the clip, and snap the action back and leave it there in case there is a cartridge in the chamber. One time we had a man picked up carrying a .45 automatic. The gun was taken from him and the clip removed. However, the action was not snapped back. Another detective came in and began examining the gun and admiring it. He pointed it at a clock and squeezed the trigger. The room was showered with clock pieces from the shell that was still in the chamber."

The nomanclature of the service .38, the magnum, the shotgun, the .45, and the sub-machine gun were discussed at the session. The FBI agent told the men that in handling any kind of guns to be sure there is no obstruction in the barrel, be careful of faulty ammunition, and beware of a hangfire.

IS CRIME A DISEASE?

Is stomach-ache a cause of crime? Or is it just a coincidence that so many criminals have stomach-aches?

These are questions raised by a four-year study by Dr. David Abrahamsen, Columbia University psychiatrist, of the relationship between sickness and crime. From an investigation of the case histories of 60 criminals and their families, he found that 55 per cent of the criminals had stomach disorders. Comparison with the case histories of 60 non-criminal families showed physical sickness, especially bodily ailments connected with mental functions, more common in the families of criminals.

Dr. Abrahamsen's findings tend to substantiate the theory of psychiatrists and some crimonologists that criminals are emotionally sick people who should be treated in hospitals instead of being locked up in prison. Probably his most important conclusion is that the relationship between parents and children ranks with economic and social conditions as a cause of crime. Bickering and nagging in the home, spineless or tyrannical parents, and domestic discord are conducive to emotional upsets.

He concludes that the real solution of the crime problem is in the home. There seems to be no doubt that proper home training and environment would materially reduce the number of lawbreakers. And there also might be fewer stomach-aches. Certainly there would be fewer heart-aches.

QUEEN WILHELMINA

In fact if not in name the people of The Netherlands acquired a new sovereign when Princess Juliana took the oath as regent at The Hague. Queen Wilhelmina has made it clear that she will not again take up the affairs of state she has transferred to her daughter's hands.

The regency will continue until August 30, when Queen Wilhelmina will return to the throne. But she will stay only long enough for the festivities marking her sixty-eighth birthday on August 31, and even more elaborate festivities under preparation for the fiftieth anniversary of her "inauguration" as ruler of the kingdom, which will begin on September 6. Then she will abdicate and Juliana will be crowned queen.

These celebrations will be tinged with sadness. The Dutch love their queen and the thought of her abdication will be in their minds as they pay her homage. Yet they will be as ready as she is to face realities—it is a habit they have learned from their long struggle with the sea—and, as she has asked, go forward "shoulder to shoulder with Juliana."

It is not merely sentiment that makes the Dutch people loyal to the House of Orange. Queen Wilhelmina, in peace and war, won their respect and trust by her loyalty to them. The reign of Princess Juliana, now beginning, rests on a sure foundation.

Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the Republican delegation from Pennsylvania in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, with deepest pride and appreciation, call to the attention of the American people the outstanding qualifications of United States Senator Edward Martin, of Pennsylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That by reason of the high character of his statesmanship, his unswerving devotion to our country and its ideals, his deep understanding of our domestic and foreign problems and his profound knowledge of the science of government, we proudly designate and proclaim Pennsylvania's first citizen, Edward Martin, as the unanimous choice of this delegation for the Republican nomination for President of the United States and we hereby request Republicans in the 48 States of the Union to join with us by endorsing and supporting this call upon him for further service to our Nation and the world.

TODAY

Martin's Prospects; They Are Climbing; Talk of Log Jam; Things That Impress; Senators Like Him
(By Herman A. Lowe)

Washington, March 15.—For the first time since the pre-Civil War era of James Buchanan, Pennsylvania has a chance to see one of its sons as the next President of the United States.

The prospects of Senator Edward Martin are starting to climb. From several quarters comes the word that he is the kind of man leaders could agree upon in the event a deadlock kills off the early front runners among the candidates. Talk of a Taft-Dewey-Stassen log jam which could eliminate all three is growing here.

A special push was given to the Martin prospects the other day when the Senate's 28-man Republican congressional delegation unanimously went to record in favor of Martin for the nomination. Thus, one of the most powerful voices in the National Capital called attention to Martin as a figure to be reckoned with. It served notice on the party's leaders that Martin, backed up by the Commonwealth's 73 convention votes, was really in the running.

In political circles the step was not regarded as merely a one-ballot or two-ballot gesture for a favorite son. It meant, according to some smart observers, that the Martin people were getting into the race to win. The Pennsylvanians are now figured as likely to be slugging for the top spot when many other candidates have fallen by the wayside and have been forgotten.

These are the things about Martin which impress people in Washington:

1. At a time when the world situation is darkening, he looms as a compromise between the distinctly peacetime leaders, such as a Taft or a Dewey, and the military men like MacArthur. Martin has had military experience. He has risen from private to major general. He would know how to move fast if war should come. On the other hand, he is essentially a civilian in public life. He would not frighten away voters who fear a lifelong, professional soldier in the White House.

2. On all sides it is admitted that supporters of Taft and supporters of Dewey would have no difficulty switching to Martin. He is highly acceptable. His record, they say, would make him a good vote getter.

3. His colleagues in the Senate like him. They frequently seek him out for advice. During his first few months in Congress, he was chosen to membership on the Republican policy committee. His blunt, vigorous handling of the Communist war veterans last year brought him citations from both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Last year also he ripped into a delegation of CIO people who attempted to order him around. He conducted an investigation of the steel gray market. He brought the Nation's top steel leaders to Washington, where he read them a lecture on operating in the public interest.

4. Today Congress is veering more and more to the stand which Martin publicly proclaimed more than a month ago on the Marshall plan, and which he has supported ever since. It appears that the eventual position of Congress, as expressed in law, will be strikingly similar to what Martin has been urging. At a time when many voices said, "Give the administration the Marshall plan; it will solve everything," Martin argued that the plan in its original form was not the answer to the European problem. He said greater safeguards in channeling the funds to useful purposes had to be set up. He said that nothing should stand in the way of making America strong. Today, as a result of the very recent Soviet moves, the Marshall plan is regarded by Congress as merely half a plan. Congressional leaders say it must be made to fit into an over-all program in which national defense (making America strong) is of equal importance.

5. Finally, down here, they point to Martin's great strength with the powerful Pennsylvania convention delegation. He is backed up by the strong support of Gov. James Duff. According to reports in District of Columbia Republican circles, Duff has told confidants he will stick with Martin as long as the Senator has a chance. The deadlock of the early leaders may last for several ballots with the eventual winner not beginning to emerge until after that. Hence, it is expected that the Keystone State delegation must go unbroken for Martin for several ballots.

The strengthening Martin prospects spell good news to Pennsylvania. It seems like a sure Republican year. Even if Martin is not nominated, the fact that he was high in the running will mark him as one of the most important figures in Washington.

Under any Republican administration he will control potent Federal patronage. For example, on the Commonwealth's own pay rolls are about 33,000 full-time salaried employees. But the Federal Government has approximately 100,000 persons on its pay rolls in Pennsylvania. In each group, the large bulk are civil-service personnel. But there are plenty of patronage jobs. Martin apparently will control a patronage list which may be larger than even that of Governor Duff.

For quite a few years the State has been handled as a step-child by Washington. While benefits went to the West and South, Pennsylvania has been largely ignored. Martin's great interest in his native State means Pennsylvania's place in the sun will not be blocked off if the Republicans win.

The worst that can happen under the growing Martin drive is the assurance of more consideration for Pennsylvania during the next 4 years.

The best is that its native son will be the next President of the United States.

IS CRIME A DISEASE?

Is stomach-ache a cause of crime? Or is it just a coincidence that so many criminals have stomach-aches?

These are questions raised by a four-year study by Dr. David Abrahamsen, Columbia University psychiatrist, of the relationship between sickness and crime. From an investigation of the case histories of 60 criminals and their families, he found that 55 per cent of the criminals had stomach disorders. Comparison with the case histories of 60 non-criminal families showed physical sickness, especially bodily ailments connected with mental functions, more common in the families of criminals.

Dr. Abrahamsen's findings tend to substantiate the theory of psychiatrists and some crimonologists that criminals are emotionally sick people who should be treated in hospitals instead of being locked up in prison. Probably his most important conclusion is that the relationship between parents and children ranks with economic and social conditions as a cause of crime. Bickering and nagging in the home, spineless or tyrannical parents, and domestic discord are conducive to emotional upsets.

He concludes that the real solution of the crime problem is in the home. There seems to be no doubt that proper home training and environment would materially reduce the number of lawbreakers. And there also might be fewer stomach-aches. Certainly there would be fewer heart-aches.

QUEEN WILHELMINA

In fact if not in name the people of The Netherlands acquired a new sovereign when Princess Juliana took the oath as regent at The Hague. Queen Wilhelmina has made it clear that she will not again take up the affairs of state she has transferred to her daughter's hands.

The regency will continue until August 30, when Queen Wilhelmina will return to the throne. But she will stay only long enough for the festivities marking her sixty-eighth birthday on August 31, and even more elaborate festivities under preparation for the fiftieth anniversary of her "inauguration" as ruler of the kingdom, which will begin on September 6. Then she will abdicate and Juliana will be crowned queen.

These celebrations will be tinged with sadness. The Dutch love their queen and the thought of her abdication will be in their minds as they pay her homage. Yet they will be as ready as she is to face realities—it is a habit they have learned from their long struggle with the sea—and, as she has asked, go forward "shoulder to shoulder with Juliana."

It is not merely sentiment that makes the Dutch people loyal to the House of Orange. Queen Wilhelmina, in peace and war, won their respect and trust by her loyalty to them. The reign of Princess Juliana, now beginning, rests on a sure foundation.

United States Senator Edward Martin Pennsylvania's Candidate for President to major general; recipient of the Distinguished Service Cross with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, and numerous other decorations and citations for distinguished achievement.

2. Public service as administrator and executive, filling with honor and distinction the offices of auditor general, State treasurer, adjutant general, governor, and United States Senator. As Governor of Pennsylvania he gave his State sound, economical, progressive government, and in the United States Senate he is a firm advocate of a strong, dynamic, solvent America.

3. Political service within the Republican Party as precinct worker, county committeeman, secretary of his county committee, county chairman, State committeeman, and Republican State chairman.

4. Varied experience as a lawyer, banker, and businessman with a thorough knowledge of the problems of large and small business as well as taxation and fiscal affairs.

Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we, the Republican delegation from Pennsylvania in the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States, with deepest pride and appreciation, call to the attention of the American people the outstanding qualifications of United States Senator Edward Martin, of Pennsylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That by reason of the high character of his statesmanship, his unswerving devotion to our country and its ideals, his deep understanding of our domestic and foreign problems and his profound knowledge of the science of government, we proudly designate and proclaim Pennsylvania's first citizen, Edward Martin, as the unanimous choice of this delegation for the Republican nomination for President of the United States and we hereby request Republicans in the 48 States of the Union to join with us by endorsing and supporting this call upon him for further service to our Nation and the world.

TODAY

Martin's Prospects; They Are Climbing; Talk of Log Jam; Things That Impress; Senators Like Him

(By Herman A. Lowe)

Washington, March 15.—For the first time since the pre-Civil War era of James Buchanan, Pennsylvania has a chance to see one of its sons as the next President of the United States.

The prospects of Senator Edward Martin are starting to climb. From several quarters comes the word that he is the kind of man leaders could agree upon in the event a deadlock kills off the early front runners among the candidates. Talk of a Taft-Dewey-Stassen log jam which could eliminate all three is growing here.

A special push was given to the Martin prospects the other day when the Senate's 28-man Republican congressional delegation unanimously went to record in favor of Martin for the nomination. Thus, one of the most powerful voices in the National Capital called attention to Martin as a figure to be reckoned with. It served notice on the party's leaders that Martin, backed up by the Commonwealth's 73 convention votes, was really in the running.

In political circles the step was not regarded as merely a one-ballot or two-ballot gesture for a favorite son. It meant, according to some smart observers, that the Martin people were getting into the race to win. The Pennsylvanians are now figured as likely to be slugging for the top spot when many other candidates have fallen by the wayside and have been forgotten.

These are the things about Martin which impress people in Washington:

1. At a time when the world situation is darkening, he looms as a compromise between the distinctly peacetime leaders, such as a Taft or a Dewey, and the military men like MacArthur. Martin has had military experience. He has risen from private to major general. He would know how to move fast if war should come. On the other hand, he is essentially a civilian in public life. He would not frighten away voters who fear a lifelong, professional soldier in the White House.

2. On all sides it is admitted that supporters of Taft and supporters of Dewey would have no difficulty switching to Martin. He is highly acceptable. His record, they say, would make him a good vote getter.

3. His colleagues in the Senate like him. They frequently seek him out for advice. During his first few months in Congress, he was chosen to membership on the Republican policy committee. His blunt, vigorous handling of the Communist war veterans last year brought him citations from both the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Last year also he ripped into a delegation of CIO people who attempted to order him around. He conducted an investigation of the steel gray market. He brought the Nation's top steel leaders to Washington, where he read them a lecture on operating in the public interest.

4. Today Congress is veering more and more to the stand which Martin publicly proclaimed more than a month ago on the Marshall plan, and which he has supported ever since. It appears that the eventual position of Congress, as expressed in law, will be strikingly similar to what Martin has been urging. At a time when many voices said, "Give the administration the Marshall plan; it will solve everything," Martin argued that the plan in its original form was not the answer to the European problem. He said greater safeguards in channeling the funds to useful purposes had to be set up. He said that nothing should stand in the way of making America strong. Today, as a result of the very recent Soviet moves, the Marshall plan is regarded by Congress as merely half a plan. Congressional leaders say it must be made to fit into an over-all program in which national defense (making America strong) is of equal importance.

5. Finally, down here, they point to Martin's great strength with the powerful Pennsylvania convention delegation. He is backed up by the strong support of Gov. James Duff. According to reports in District of Columbia Republican circles, Duff has told confidants he will stick with Martin as long as the Senator has a chance. The deadlock of the early leaders may last for several ballots with the eventual winner not beginning to emerge until after that. Hence, it is expected that the Keystone State delegation must go unbroken for Martin for several ballots.

The strengthening Martin prospects spell good news to Pennsylvania. It seems like a sure Republican year. Even if Martin is not nominated, the fact that he was high in the running will mark him as one of the most important figures in Washington.

Under any Republican administration he will control potent Federal patronage. For example, on the Commonwealth's own pay rolls are about 33,000 full-time salaried employees. But the Federal Government has approximately 100,000 persons on its pay rolls in Pennsylvania. In each group, the large bulk are civil-service personnel. But there are plenty of patronage jobs. Martin apparently will control a patronage list which may be larger than even that of Governor Duff.

For quite a few years the State has been handled as a step-child by Washington. While benefits went to the West and South, Pennsylvania has been largely ignored. Martin's great interest in his native State means Pennsylvania's place in the sun will not be blocked off if the Republicans win.

The worst that can happen under the growing Martin drive is the assurance of more consideration for Pennsylvania during the next 4 years.

The best is that its native son will be the next President of the United States.

Our gracious Lord, we would pray this day for the healing of the wounds of the nations; our own, and others. The way of recovery is long and arduous; many are fainting by the way. A hand that is more than human is needed at the helm; a judgment keener than any yet exhibited required to lead the world out of the morass it finds itself in. We are adepts at destruction, but sheer novices at the building up. Be Thou our help in this time of travail. Bind up the broken hearts, bring deliverance to the captives. Hasten the day, O Christ, when the sword shall be turned into plowshares, and they shall not hurt nor destroy in all Thy holy mountain. Amen.

TRENTON CATHOLIC WINS MEET HERE WITH 84 POINTS

MORRISVILLE, May 18—Trenton Catholic High won the quadrangular track meet here yesterday with 84 points. Bristol High scored enough points in the last three events to finish second with 38½ points. Morrisville was third with 31½ points, while Hamilton High finished fourth, having 28 points.

Rain halted the proceedings with four events to be finished but after an hours' wait, the meet continued. The 220 yard dash finals was run with puddles donning the cinders from start to finish while the field men had difficulty in getting a footing in the high jump and broad jump.

Bristol did not actually have a first place to its credit although Harry Ratcliffe tied with Schiley, of Hamilton, in the high jump, and Jim Sottille won one of the heats in the 110 yard low hurdles.

Coach McClister's boys were exceptionally well in the field events scoring 26 points in these. Morrisville had a lead on the Warriors, 31½ to 21½, with the meet practically over, but Bristol scored 16½ points in the last four events to cop second place, while Morrisville was a failure in these events, not getting a point. Hamilton, which had but 14 points with three events to go, came back strong and almost beat the Bulldogs for third position.

The mile run was an exciting race. Dan Bell, of Hamilton, had the lead for the first two laps, being closely pressed by Kelly, of Catholic. It wasn't until "Johnny" Higgins, of Morrisville, and "Howie" Bailey, of Bristol, put on a final spurt in the last lap that the lead was wrested from Bell, who came in fourth behind Pugh, of Morrisville.

"Jim" Sottille was trailing in sixth position in the 110 yard low hurdles but after making his fifth leap put on a gallant finish to come in third.

Coach John Ungrady's Catholic High squad captured 7 first places, while Morrisville had 4 firsts.

RAIN HALTS GAME IN FIFTH INNING

LANGHORNE, May 18—Bristol Township was leading Langhorne Junior High, 2-0, yesterday afternoon, in a Lower Bucks Junior High League contest when rain interfered in the fifth and caused postponement of the tilt. The game will be replayed at a later date.

Harry Eisenbrey, Township hurler, had a no-run no-hit game to his credit when the game was called. Township had three hits made by Barlow, Eisenbrey and Harry Saul.

The box score for four innings:

Acre, Arab City, Surrenders to Jews

as Tel Aviv was subjected to two new air raids this morning.

Haganah announced that one Egyptian aircraft raiding the city was shot down by anti-aircraft fire and the pilot was made a prisoner.

The Jewish forces said that the situation of Jewish defenders in the old city of Jerusalem, under assault by Arabs, now has become "serious."

In an account of continued battling in Jerusalem, Haganah said that "murderous fire was directed against the old city throughout the night."

Moshe Shertok, foreign minister of the provisional state of Israel, meanwhile sent a protest to the International Red Cross against the bombing of a Jewish Hospital at Tel Aviv by what was identified as an Egyptian plane.

Shertok declared that the hospital was clearly marked by a sign bearing the red shield of David.

Reports from the island of Cyprus said that the scheduled sailing of two transports, the Pan York and the Pan Crescent, with Jewish refugees seeking entry into Israel, was postponed indefinitely because of conditions in the Holy Land.

In northeastern Palestine, Jews were reported to have drowned a force of 500 Arab soldiers by opening dam locks near Dagania, south of Lake Tiberias.

The Jews claimed that by opening the hydro-electric dam they flooded a considerable part of the river Jordan valley along the trans-Jordan frontier.

Bucks Countians Aiding In Appeal For Children

The United Nations Appeal for Children has appointed Mrs. John Folinsbee, New Hope, and Mrs. Jesse Packer, Newtown, co-chairman for Bucks County. Others on the committee are: Dr. Charlotte S. Grave, Langhorne; Mrs. George A. Walton, Newtown; Mrs. George Arnett, Yardley; Mrs. Joseph Comly, Morrisville; and Mrs. T. B. Megargee, Bristol.

The purpose of the drive, it is stated, is to bring into one single appeal all major private foreign relief agencies; to guarantee coordination and economy in operation; to avoid public confusions and volunteer exhaustion; to give a convincing demonstration to the world that the free enterprise system produces the greatest wealth, distributes it most widely and produces citizens who care for others.

The appeal is for $60,000,000 and will be distributed by 26 existing agencies, such as Church World Service, National Catholic Welfare Conference, American Friends Service Committee. Churches and all local organizations are asked to participate wholeheartedly. Funds may be sent to any of the Bucks County representatives.

TRENTON CATHOLIC WINS MEET HERE WITH 84 POINTS

MORRISVILLE, May 18—Trenton Catholic High won the quadrangular track meet here yesterday with 84 points. Bristol High scored enough points in the last three events to finish second with 38½ points. Morrisville was third with 31½ points, while Hamilton High finished fourth, having 28 points.

Rain halted the proceedings with four events to be finished but after an hours' wait, the meet continued. The 220 yard dash finals was run with puddles donning the cinders from start to finish while the field men had difficulty in getting a footing in the high jump and broad jump.

Bristol did not actually have a first place to its credit although Harry Ratcliffe tied with Schiley, of Hamilton, in the high jump, and Jim Sottille won one of the heats in the 110 yard low hurdles.

Coach McClister's boys were exceptionally well in the field events scoring 26 points in these. Morrisville had a lead on the Warriors, 31½ to 21½, with the meet practically over, but Bristol scored 16½ points in the last four events to cop second place, while Morrisville was a failure in these events, not getting a point. Hamilton, which had but 14 points with three events to go, came back strong and almost beat the Bulldogs for third position.

The mile run was an exciting race. Dan Bell, of Hamilton, had the lead for the first two laps, being closely pressed by Kelly, of Catholic. It wasn't until "Johnny" Higgins, of Morrisville, and "Howie" Bailey, of Bristol, put on a final spurt in the last lap that the lead was wrested from Bell, who came in fourth behind Pugh, of Morrisville.

"Jim" Sottille was trailing in sixth position in the 110 yard low hurdles but after making his fifth leap put on a gallant finish to come in third.

Coach John Ungrady's Catholic High squad captured 7 first places, while Morrisville had 4 firsts.
